

City of High Point Wellness Program

The City of High Point has had wellness initiatives in place since January 2006. The primary focus of the programs is on improved nutrition, weight loss/management, increased physical activity, and prescription drug compliance. Participation in the programs is strictly voluntary. Programs that are currently being offered include:

- Weight Watchers - Participants can choose to attend At Work meetings onsite at the City of High Point or can join the Weight Watchers Online Program. See additional information on program specifics on the following page.
- Body Mass Index (BMI) Program – Height and weight measurements are taken and BMI is calculated at the Safety & Health Clinic each January and July for all interested participants. Employees who are already at a healthy weight can receive a $25 incentive for maintaining a healthy BMI of 25 or below over a 6-month period. Participants who are not currently in the healthy BMI range can work on losing weight and lowering BMI to a healthier level. If a BMI greater than 25 is reduced by at least one point during the 6-months, then this will also qualify for the $25 incentive.
- Prescription Drug Co-Pay Reimbursement - To encourage and assist employees and covered dependents with taking blood pressure, diabetes, and cholesterol medications regularly, the city reimburses prescription copay amounts for these categories of medications at the current generic co-pay amount of $15. Employees are required to present prescription receipts to the HR Benefits staff for reimbursement on diabetes and cholesterol medications. For blood pressure medication, employees must also visit the Safety & Health Clinic for a blood pressure check each time a prescription receipt is turned in for reimbursement.
